ANTI-BRITISH agitation, fanned by Japanese, is spreading in North China.

Defeated in their moves to force Britain to adopt a sympathetic attitude towards China, the Japanese authorities have embarked upon a widespread plan to foster hatred amongst the masses of Chinese people by campaign representation and calumny.

TIENTSIN, June 20. VOLUNTEER Force in the British Concession has been ordered to stand by for immediate mobilisation.

There are now two British warships here. The Sandwich arrived this afternoon, and the Lowestoft, which was due to leave to-morrow, cancelled her departure.

A British motor lorry, escorted by a detachment of the Durham Light Infantry, brought a large quantity of vegetables into the Concession, this being the first British effort to defeat the restriction of the entry of foodstuffs.

JAPANESE military and naval measures against Swatow are believed to be imminent.

Foreign vessels arriving at the harbour have been strongly advised by Japanese naval sources not to enter the port.

Three ships—the Yisang, Suiyang and Marie Moller —were stopped by a Japanese warship and informed that it would not be in their interests to enter Swatow.

This revelation, which comes from reliable sources, switches interest in Sino-Japanese hostilities once again to South China.

For some time past there have been reports of concentrations of Japanese warships and transports off the Kwangtung seaport, the only major port now in Chinese hands.

An invasion appeared imminent at one stage early last month when a fleet of over fifty vessels gathered off the scaport. On that occasion, however, they were dispersed by a typhoon

It is claimed that considerable Japanese naval activity has been evident off the port during the past week.

However, it is believed in some influential quarters that the latest Japanese move there may presage, Honolulu. not a landing, but a complete "Knowing that the ship was flooded blockade of the China coast, in which in the after ends and that the battery foreign ships, for the first time and was directly short circuited, and contrary to all precepts of Inter- mindful of the danger which existed national Law, will be prevented from if he entered the forward battery trading along the coast.

Silver Shows Sharp Decline

SILVER met with its sharpest decline to-day for a considerable period, when the spot price was fixed at 191/ad. per ounce, compared with 19%d. previously. The fall, which was not entirely unexpected, was largely due to nervousness arising from the uncertainty surrounding the United States Treasury's policy regarding purchases of foreign silver after the end of June.

Coast, Airports Watched Night and Day

UNDESIRABLE aliens no longer find it easy to smuggle themselves into Britain. Night and day watch along the coast and at all airports makes it almost impossible for them to escape notice.

And if they succeed in landing, the chances are that they will Norwegian quickly be caught. Fox Furs

So well is the campaign against them organised, that the steady inflow, which in the past few years has eaused official concern, has shown a marked decrease.

An immigration official said: This is all the more creditable in view of the fact that the European situation has caused huge numbers of people to seek refuge here unknown to the authorities.

"When an alien does get through, it is only the beginning, and not the end of his adventure. He finds himself baulked at every turn and, in the end, gets caught." LANDED IN SPEEDBOAT

Sharp penalties and magisterial warnings have also combined to make their lot in Britain an unhappy one.

This is illustrated by a case at Bow-street police court recently.

Alexandre Mandl, aged 25, de-scribed by the police as an international pickpocket, arrived secretly recently by speedboat from France. He was at liberty only a few hours. Five years ago Mandl was deported for attempting to pick pockets, but since then his Hungarian nationality has been taken away. He is now a man without any country, and cannot again be deported.

There were convictions against him in Budapest, Vienna, Munich, Berlin, and Brussels.

. The magistrate (Mr. Fry) told Mandl: "We cannot get rid of you now as you have no nationality according to law." Mandl was sentenced to three months' imprisonment.

probably that is the case. From the rate of increase of employment in insured occupations it may be inferred that workers are being drawn, to an extent not at present calculable, from uninsured occupations and also from agriculture. Transfers do not, of course, increase the total volume of employment. The number of transfers, however, would have to be very large to upset the computation that a new high level of all employment has been reached. Of the 1,402,202 persons registered as unemployed—the lowest total since October, 1937—198,617 were "tem-porarily stopped" and 59,664 were persons normally in casual employ-ment, leaving 1,234,001 wholly un-employed who, however, are not all

GERMAN book which has just appeared in Amsterdam shows that the threat of persecution still hangs over the scientific research worker as menacingly as it did in the darkest periods of history.

"For these reasons," wrote the author in 1938, "I shall not let this work be known, but that does not prevent me from writing it down. ... It can then lie hidden until a time comes when it can safely venture into the light or until someone who reaches the same conclusions and opinions can be told: There was somebody even in those dark days who thought the same as you."

The book is by Professor Sigmund Freud; its, title, "Moses and Monotheism." The public who have been awaiting its publication for years were told that it would only appear after the author's death.

Clearly it is among Freud's most important speculative work. It suggests that Moses was not a Jew but an Egyptian follower of the Pharaoh Akhnaton, and it is from Akhnaton's sun-worship that he believes Judaism and Christianity to be derived.

THEORY OF RELIGION

In the course of the argument Freud examines the causes of anti-Semitism, the continued existence of the Jewish race, and will offend large sections of public opinion by his whole treatment of religion, which he sees as a counterpart of neurosis in the individual.

Its power, he says, "comes fromthe truth it contains, only this truth is not a material truth, but an historical one." The circumstances which have made publication possible are ironically due to Hitler. The research and most of the writing were done several years ago in the Vienna of Dollfuss and Schus-

> To von Heuter it seemed certain the terms would be severe, and if the naval clauses were adhered to, Germany would be rendered impotent at sea. Would Germany accept such terms? This von Reuter could not tell, but the news which came from Germany suggested that a renewal of the war was more than possible. It the final result was war, and not peace, it would mean that Germany

Admiral von Reuter had always borne in mind the desirability of sinking his ships, but those ships still had on board members of the Sailors' Soviet; men without patriotism or honour. He therefore decided to announce that several men could be spared. Arrangements were made to transport them back to Germany, that the anti-British movement has and those who elected to go were those the Admiral wished to see the last of, the malcontents who thought sure of discipline to his Fleet

The necessary arrangements could

On June 20 von Reuter read in the Press that his Government had decided to reject the peace proposals; this he thought would mean war. The next day his chance came. The British Squadron put to sea for a few hours for exercises; von Reuter hoisted his signal; slowly but surely, without loss of life, the fleet sank to the bottom. Germany's High Seas Fleet had committed honourable suicide.

Glamorgan Beat Essex In Thrilling Game In County Championship

. By C. W. Packford

Ilford: Glamorgan beat Essex by 5 wickets London, May 20.

Glamorgan won a thrilling game following what has been described in the past as a "freak" declaration, but which in this case I prefer to regard as a sporting attempt by two captains to improve on a farcical situation.

There had been no play on the Jones (E) not out opening day; only half an hour on the second, and there was an hour's delay before the game was recommenced yesterday. In the circumstances an uninteresting and profit-less drawn game seemed inevitable. Both Stephenson and Turnbull. however, told me they were determined to finish the match if possible, so Essex, who had scored nine runs for the loss of a wicket on the second day, at once declared when play was

STRUGGLE STARTS

Glamorgan, having obtained the same number by means of two leg hits to the boundary by Brierley and a no-ball, likewise declared and the teams then settled down in a struggle for the 12 points, both being certain of two for their "tie" on the first innings. Essex found scoring far from easy on a dead wicket, but Taylor and O'Connor settled down to adventurous methods and rattled the score

This was the commencement of an inspired spell by the new bowler, who followed up his initial success by sending back Taylor and Nicholshis three victims falling to him for -- 10 runs in 10-holls.

ESSEX UNLUCKY

The real excitement came when Glamorgan set about getting 110 needed for victory. They were left two hours and 40 minutes in which to score them. Nichols sent back Dyson before a run was scored, but nothing would go right for Essex after this.

Brierley played a match-winning effort for he remained a successful attacking force until Glamorgan were in sight of victory. After he was dismissed at 82, Essex rallied and sent back Turnbull, Emrys and Dai Davies for the addition of another 16 runs. but it was all in vain. Glamorgan had obtained a grip on the game and won handsomely with plenty of time to spare.

THOM BEATS BANKS In the meantime, Thom had beaten Sydney Banks, famous Yorkshire gofer, in decisive manner. Thom went at in the grand score of 34, having taken one putt on each of five greens, but he was then only two up, having been the victim of a remarkable

At the short fourth hole Thom placed his tee shot 4ft. from the hale, but Banks stymied him with his own tee shot. 2ft. from the pin, and won

Even such golf as this was not good enough against the youngster's brilliant putting, and Thom decided the match with a masterly brassle shot, practically dead, to win the leng 16th to be dormic.

Hiley. Just recovering from tonsillitis, had a real joyday in his match with D. Grant O'Brien, an Air Force pilot who had special leave for the match. Hiley was four over 4's for the first seven holes and then played magnificently to win the next ave holes with a score averaging four under 4's. The American contingent is reduced to four players, Ellsworth fines and William Holt, who have yet to play a match, and Charles Yates, the title-holder, and Richard Chapman, who come into opposition in the third round to-morrow.

SAVED BY FINISH Unless Yates plays better than he has done so far he may be beaten by his compatriot. The young Georgia bank clerk pulled his maten out of the fire in a brilliant finish against Donald Cameron, prominent West of Scotland gofer.

Yntes had slightly the better of a rather erratic outward half and turned with a two-holes lead. But having over-worked his putter to retain this advantage for a while, he was brought back to all square with three to play, ----

The American now keyed himself up to a final grand effort, winning the 16th and 17th with perfectly played 4's for the match.

Chapman played better golf than this, going out in 35 and being four under 4's when he became dormle ave. But the home defence is depleted by the over-throw of Cyril Tolley who, three up and four to play, was beaten on the home green by Walter McLeod, a young Scottish International.

Bear in mind that a jelly mixture for a large mould should always be made a little stiffer than for a small one, and especially if it is to be set with fruit. A cream or custard mixture requires a smaller proportion of jelly as it is already slightly stiff.

Of course, the usual amount of liquid added to a jelly square is a pint, but this, should be slightly reduced in very hot weather, to ensure the jelly setting well and of the requisite firmness.

Finally, bear in mind that the success of a jelly largely depends on the mould. The mould should not be too light. To have it a little on the heavy side is a distinct advantage, for if chills better. Too, the mould should be of a uniform thickness throughout.

A thrilling chase by a sanitary waggon, a leap to the running board of a stolen car which was run into a lamp post by the robbers to avoid arrest, were the highlights of an incident in Kowloon, last night.

Bombing By Japanese

Further questions were asked in the House of Commons recently regarding recent bombing raids by the Japanese:---

Bir. Mander asked the Prime Minister whether he will consider proposing to the League of Nations that representations should be made to the Japanese Government with regard to the continued slaughter of civilians by bombing at Chungking and other places ?

Mr. Butler: As I informed the hon. and learned Member for Kingswinford (Mr. A. Henderson) on 15th May, strong representations have already been made on this subject by His Majesty's Government and other Governments. It will, moreover, be recalled that the League of Nations made clear its attitude in the resolution passed by the Council in January last, condemning recourse to methods which are contrary to the conscience of mankind and to the principles of international law. In these circumstances my Noble Friend is not convinced that a further initiative is required.

Mr. David Adams asked the Prime Minister whether he has received any report with regard to the bombing of Chuanchow, north of Amoy; whether any British interests were affected; and what is the nature of the damage to life and property?
Mr. Batter: No. Sir, but a report has been called for.

TIENTSIN, June 20. THE VOLUNTEER Force in the British Concession has been ordered to stand by for immediate mobilisation.

There are now two British warships here. The Sandwich arrived this afternoon, and the Lowestoft, which was due to leave to-morrow, cancelled her departure.

A British motor lorry, escorted by a detachment of the Durham Light Infantry, brought a large quantity of vegetables into the Concession, this being the first British effort to defeat the restriction of the entry of foodstuffs.

NO INTERFERENCE The Japanese sentries allowed the lorry to pass the barricades without molestation.

Reports that seven lorries ran the blockade yesterday are not true.

The food shortage remains acute, despite to-day's excursion. Supplies of milk are now completely stopped by the Japanese Concession, and there is also a shortage of coal.

A slight relaxation in the restrictions at the Japanese barriers was noted this evening, presumably on account of the Chinese "Dragon Boat" festival to-morrow.

Britons, however, declined to hail the move as a sign that the blockade is being definitely alleviated .-- Reuter.

Tientsin Armed Camp TIENTSIN, June 20 .- In retaliation for the refusal of the British authorities to part with 3,000,000 sacks of flour stored in British Concession, but intended for the Chinese hinterland, merchants outside the Concession to-day resolved to break off all trade connections with the Concession. With the volunteers mobilising, the British Concession resembles an armed camp. Patrols and armoured cars command the streets, and about 1,000 men are under arms.

The Japanese military authorities emphasised to-day that their measures are directed only against England. Should Britain decide to answer probably that is the case. From the rate of increase of employment in insured occupations it nidy be inferred that workers are being drawn, to an extent not at present calculable, from uninsured occupations and also from agriculture. Transfers do not, of course, increase the total volume of employment. The number of transfers, however, would have to be very large to upset the computation that a new high level of all employment has been reached.

Japan's action with economic sanctions, Japan will regard her pledge to respect British rights in China as no longer blnding.-Trans-Ocean.

GERMAN book which has just appeared in Amsterdam shows that the threat of persecution still hangs over the scientific research worker as menacingly as it did in the darkest periods of history.

"For these reasons," wrote the author in 1938, "I shall not let this work be known, but that does not prevent me from writing it down. ... It can then lie hidden until a time comes when it can safely venture into the light or until someone who reaches the same conclusions and opinions can be told: There was somebody even in those dark days who thought the same as you."

The book is by Professor Sigmund Freud; its title, "Moses and Monotheism." The public who have been awaiting its publication for years were told that it would only appear after the author's death.

Clearly it is among Freud's most important speculative work. It suggests that Moses was not a Jew but an Egyptian follower of the Pharach Akhnaton, and it is from Akhnaton's sun-worship that he believes Judaism and Christianity to be derived.

THEORY OF RELIGION

In the course of the argument Freud examines the causes of anti-Semitism, the continued existence of the Jewish race, and will offend large sections of public opinion by his whole treatment of religion, which he sees as a counterpart of neurosis in the individual.

Its power, he says, "comes from the truth it contains, only this truth its not a material truth, but an historical one."

The circumstances which have made publication possible are ironieally due to Hitler. The research and most of the writing were done several years ago in the Vienna of Dollfuss and Schus-

Would Germany accept such terms? This von Reuter could not tell, but the news which came from Germany suggested that a renewal of the war was more than possible. If the final result was War, and not peace, it would mean that Germany would have to renew hostilities with her once proud fleet in the enemy's possession.

Protest To Tokyo

LONDON, June 20.-Little fresh light was thrown on the situation in Tientsin by Viscount Halifax when he made his first statement on the "Blockade" in the House of Lords this afternoon.

Viscount Halifax re-emphasised that Britain was maintaining very close touch with the American and French governments.

The Foreign Secretary recounted the events which led up to the present situation in Tientsin and declared that the British military authorities had taken all precautions possible for the maintenance of order.

The entry of perishable goods as a result of the rigid search at the barriers continued to be spasmodic. Normal supplies were reported to be reaching the markets in the adjoining French Concession,-Reuter.

Wednesday,

This was youth's proud day at the amateur championship meeting, here on the Royal Liverpool Club's sunbathed links. Two 19-years-old players, James Bruen, of Cork, and Tom Hiley, of Southport, and Kenneth Thom, 17-years-old Essex boy champion, stole most of the admiration of the big crowd for their amazing feats of golfing little cold water is run over the dish on which the mould is to be served. The mould will then slide into posttion easily, and any surplus water can be wiped away.

We have to remember that drinks as a rule are scarce, so flavours should be tart or fruity, and not too sweet for second course.

There is a correct way to turn out a jelly, of course. First of all dip the vhole mould or basin containing the jelly in a bowl of hot water, taking it out again immediately. Now turn it upside down on the glass dish, and with your two thumbs on top of the mould and your fingers grasping the dish, lift them up and give a strong, swift downward shake right from your

Bear in mind that a jelly mixture for a large mould should always be made a little stiffer than for a small one and especially if it is to be set with fruit. A cream or custard mixture requires a smaller proportion of jelly ha it is already slightly stiff.

THE NAVY DEPARTMENT of Japanese H. Q. announced at 12.15 p.m. that Japanese fleet units entered Swatow Harbour at 8.30

All important islands in the outer harbour were occupied by 5.30 a.m., the communique claims. The units which advanced into the harbour were disposing of mines and other obstacles.

The communique reveals that the naval forces participating in the operations are under the command of Vice-Admiral Kondon, Commander-in-Chief of the Japanese Naval Forces in South China.

.Transports carrying Army troops under the escort of fleet units entered Swatow Bay late last night and the landing forces immediately began disembarkation, the communique adds.

FALL OF CITY NEAR

Continuing their advance inland following their disembarkation at dawn, the Japanese vanguard had reached to within two miles of the city of Swatow by 10 a.m., a Japanese Army communique announced at 2.50

Japanese Fleet units are now rapidly steaming up the Han-River in an attempt to prevent the breaching of the Han River dykes by Chinese troops. The Chinese troops, it is feared, plan to flood the Swatow-Chaochow plain by breaching the Han River dykes in an attempt to prevent the Japanese advance.

ISLANDS OCCUPIED

The original Japanese landing was effected at Double Island, at the entrance to the Han River, and one-time popular residential area for foreigners in Swatow.

Swatow itself is about two miles from the river entrance.

The landings at dawn this morning were effected by approximately one thousand soldiers and Marines, approximately 500 landing on either side of the Han River. The Japanese vanguard appear to have cleared the way for a major landing which, at noon, to-day, was under way in the Han River itself.

Meanwhile, the vanguard which landed this morning appears to be pushing inland on either side of Swatow, with the obvious intention of encircling the city and cutting it off from the hinterland. Japanese troops landing in the Han River are being despatched to reinforce the vanguard immediately they land. Mechanised units are also being landed.

And if they succeed in landing, the chances are that they will quickly be caught.

So well is the compaign against them organised; that the sleady in-flow, which in the past few years has caused official concern, has shown a marked decrease,

An immigration official said: "This is all the more creditable in view of the fact that the European situation has caused huge numbers of people to seek refuge here unknown to the authorities.

"When an alien does get through, it is only the beginning, and not the end of his adventure. He finds himself baulked at every turn and, in the end, gets caught."

LANDED IN SPEEDBOAT

Sharp penalties and magisterial warnings have also combined to make their lot in Britain an unhappy one.

This is illustrated by a case at Bow-street police court recently.

Alexandre Mandi, aged 25, described by the police as an international pickpocket, arrived secretly recently by speedboat from France. He was at liberty only a few hours. Five years ago Mandi was deported for attempting to pick pockets, but since then his Hungarian nationality has been taken away. He is now a man without any country, and cannot

NORMAN HILLSON TO-MORROW THEY'RE GOING TO TALK IN PARLIAMENT ABOUT THE MONEY

SPENT BY THE COLONIAL OFFICE OOK on the picture of the Governor of a Colony sitting on the verandah of his official residence.

That morning he has perhaps reviewed the native garrison. If he happens to be Governor of Hongkong he may have seen three battalions line up on the drill ground with their colours and drums. If he is stationed at Malta he may have made a tour of the Fleet in the grand harbour of Valetta,

Or perhaps he has just returned from a session of the Executive Council or a meeting of the Legislature where his casting vote has given emphasis to his already wide powers. He has driven to the council in his official car or in an open carriage escorted by cavalry or native police.

Turning Out from the Mould

It is often quite a difficult job to place anything turned out from a mould in the centre of the dish, and to give sundry little-jerks to get it in position will often break a jelly or i alanemange.

The trouble may be overcome if a little cold water is run over the dish on which the mould is to be served. The mould will then slide into position ensity, and any surplus water can be wiped away. 🕟

There is a correct way to turn out a jelly, of course. First of all dip the awhole mould or basin containing the jelly in a bowl of hot water, taking it_out_again_immediately._ Now_turn it upside down on the glass dish, and with your two thumbs on top of the mould and your fingers grasping the dish, lift them up and give a strong, swift downward shake right from your

You will hear the jelly drop with a "plop," and it will be unproken. If it does not do this the first time, do it again, but do not try to get it out with a series of short, quick jerks' from your clooms only. If you do, the jelly is likely to break. The Mixture

Bear in mind that a jelly mixture for a large mould should always be made a little stiffer than for a small one, and especially if it is to be set with fruit. A cream or custard mixture requires a smaller proportion of jelly as it is already slightly stiff.

Of course, the usual amount of liquid added to a Jelly square is a pint, but this should be slightly reduced in very hot weather, to ensure the jelly setting well and of the requisite firmness.

Finally, bear in mind that the success of a jelly largely depends on the mould. The mould should not be too light. To have it a little on the heavy side is a distinct advantage, for I chills better. Too, the mould should be of a uniform thickness throughout. I. P. M.

New Swim Suits Very Feminine

New York-When arrives, the curtain goes up on the marine scene, and beaches become alive with nymphs costumed more or less appropriately to the occasion.

The mannish swim suit, or the businesslike sult with contrasting trunks and top, is but a memory of yesteryear. It's the little-girl era now. The darlings are just too cute for words in their little suits of cotton, very feminine and very eye-filling.

The strapless suit, of course, and other copies from the best ballroom models, have appeared, but one doesn't need to wear this sort of thing unless one chooses. There are plenty of attractive models. They have either skirts or pleated shorts. There are several necklines to choose from, but the square line, much like the top of a workman's overalls, is very new looking, especially when the shoulder straps buckle or button to

The play and beach sult with a hood is a good bet. The hood does away with the necessity for an odd hat—and when I say odd, consider the term

HERO OF SQUALUS DISASTER

Dramatic Story At Inquiry

PORTSMOUTH, June 20. THE COMMANDING OFFICER of the sunken suballow, in certain circumstances, marine Squalus, Lieutenant-Commander Naquin, at to-day's Board of Inquiry into the disaster, acclaimed a new hero of the disaster, Chief Electrician's Mate Lawrence J. Gainor from Honolulu.

"Knowing that the ship was flooded in the after ends and that the battery was directly short circulted, and mindful of the danger, which existed if he entered the forward battery tanks, Gainor entered the tanks and pulled a disconnecting switch," he

Minor Imperfection

Lieutenant-Commander Naquin, today, told the Board that a minor imperfection in the adjustment of the induction valve's gearing might have been the cause of the disaster.

"I feel that if there was some small imperfection in the adjustment of the gearing, it is possible that additional friction would creep in and cause the failure of other parts of the valve's operating gear," he

He asserted that as far as he knew there had never been any mechanical trouble in connection with closing the valve.-United Press,.

Dragon Boat Festival 22-Century-Old Commemoration

TO-DAY, the fifth day of the fifth moon, is the day of the Dragon Boat Festival.

This festival provides one of the most spectacular events of the year and is probably observed on n larger scale in Hongkong than in any other part of China.

The ceremony commemorates an occurrence in Chinese History as far back as the 3rd, century B.C., when one Chu Yuan, a high official at that time, drowned himself in the Mi-Lo river, in the province of Hunan.

Although he appears to have been a stout fellow in every respect and popular with the masses, he nevertheless fell out with his sovereign over some matter or other, of state policy, which resulted in his degradation and

This so preyed on his mind that he committed suicide and his body was never recovered. Search Maintained

Sympathetic friends observed the first anniversary of his death by searching the river for his body and this practice has ever since been kept up on rivers, lakes and sea.

During the search small packages of boiled rice tied · up in bamboo leaves, are thrown into the water, whether to provide - a counterattraction to the fish (which might devour his body) or to evil spirits is not quite clear,

To-day Chinese children will buy little replicas of these packets of rice, and will go to watch the Dragon

These Dragon Boats, specially built for the occasion, are nearly 100 feet long and very narrow. They are paddled at high speed through the water, to the accompaniment of the beating of drums and gongs, which can be heard at a great distance. The winners receive monetary prizes donated by various fishing guilds and boat-builders in Hong-Rucca are held at Causeway Bay and at Aberdeen, and you can imagine that the excitement is intense should, as often happens, one of the boats capsize. The populace ashore give their whole-hearted support and turn the day into more or less of a holiday. A special feast at home concludes the celebrations.—G.
